

Harriet Hanson was a teenage girl who, using her freedoms of assembly and speech, led a strike against poor working conditions in the Lowell Mills during the 1830s. She went on to become a poet, author, and suffragette.